SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY

The LSU School of Veterinary Medicine admitted its first students to the professional curriculum during the 1973-74 academic year. The original entering class consisted of 36 students, all residents of Louisiana. Class size has increased significantly in recent years. With the graduating class of 2009, 2,338 students have successfully completed the four-year curriculum and received a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree at the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine. Advanced degrees—the Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy—in veterinary medical sciences, pathobiological sciences, and comparative biomedical sciences are also offered at LSU SVM.

The School has an excellent faculty supported by modern equipment. The Veterinary Medicine Building, located on the west side of the campus near the Mississippi River, was dedicated in October 1978. It houses three academic departments, as well as the Veterinary Medical Library, the Veterinary Teaching Hospital and Clinics, and the Louisiana Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory. The facilities at the Veterinary Teaching Hospital and Clinics are used as classrooms where students are introduced to clinical cases and animal disease problems, as well as to methods and techniques used in their solution. The clinical case load at the hospital, in-field services, and herd health programs offer ample opportunities for the education of the complete veterinarian.
