When Your Pet Is Sick ...

... We Can Help

LSU
School of Veterinary Medicine

How We Can Help

When your pet is sick, you turn to your veterinarian for the very best care and treatment. Your veterinarian is the one who can diagnose the specific illness, recommend a course of treatment, and offer the tender loving care that your pet needs to recover.

But when emergencies occur or when illnesses are extremely severe, additional medical attention may be necessary. Your veterinarian may consult the veterinarians at the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine or refer your pet to the LSU Veterinary Teaching Hospital and Clinics for further observation and treatment.

Hospital personnel work closely with your veterinarian to provide your pet with the highest quality of care and treatment. Specialists in internal medicine, surgery, radiology, dermatology, cardiology, ophthalmology, reproduction, clinical pathology, oncology, anesthesiology, and exotic animals offer a level of expertise that supports your veterinarian.

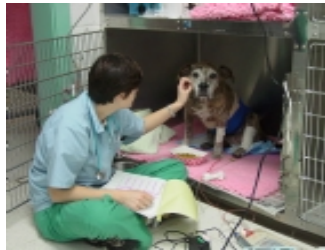

In the teaching hospital, students are trained in every aspect of veterinary medicine. The educational opportunities provided to LSU veterinary students give them the skills to be the very best veterinarians when they graduate, with concern and compassion for you and your pet.

In order for LSU to provide this high level of care to you, your pet, and your veterinarian, we must rely on private contributions to subsidize dwindling state appropriations. To maintain our high standards and to progress with the changing trends in veterinary medical education, we ask for your support.

Giving a Gift

Your tax-deductible gift provides needed financial assistance in many ways, as listed in this brochure. Gifts can be made in memory or in honor of a pet, veterinarian, friend, or relative.

Planned gifts can provide a legacy to the School of Veterinary Medicine, while providing excellent tax incentives. Your estate planner can help you establish a gift that will in turn benefit the animals in our care. With appreciated stocks, bonds, real estate, life insurance, or cash, planned gifts can be established in the form of charitable gift annuities, trusts, or bequests, naming the LSU School of Veterinary Medicine as the beneficiary. You may be able to bypass capital gains taxes, provide an income stream for you or a family member, and make a charitable gift benefitting the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Visit our website (www.vetmed.lsu.edu) or call the School of Veterinary Medicine Office of Institutional Advancement at (225) 578-9870 for more information on how you can give a gift or establish a planned gift that benefits you and your pet.
